

Step out the door early in the morning.
Head to the chosen place with container and trowel.
Dig a little into the soil; take away some.
At home, sift out bits of stone, plant, everything but soil.
Add water if necessary.
Knead it with your hands until you reach the right consistency.
It must be soft, not sticky.
Now that you have a clump of soil, you can continue.
Model the body.
Add 4 legs.
The neck and the head.
The ears.
Use the point of a pencil to punch eyes into the snout.
Add a tail.
It can stand straight up or hang down.Or even wag...

Self-Learning Exercise , for Maria Rosa, June 2016